There were two United States Marshals in town Saturday looking after two boys named Willie Cummins and Peter Folke, for stopping the mail wagon between this place and Blauhall last week. It is supposed they have jumped the town, as they could be found nowhere Saturday. It is believed that the boys had done the act in fun, as Mr. Driver is an old man. If the boys can be found, the law will be enforced. This should be a warning to all boys never to have anything to do with fooling with a mail wagon.

WILMINGTON, O.

The High School commencement at City Hall Thursday evening of last week was conducted with credit to all concerned. There were thirteen graduates, being more than any previous year. The room was beautifully decorated with floral designs. One thing was observed by the critics—each pupil, in turn, seemed to have cultivated an easy stage pose while rendering their orations and essays, which we may remark is not usual with the young Demotheans. The Wilmington Orchestra, conducted by Walt Fischer, came in for rounds of applause.

Friday evening the Alumni held forth with its now 56 members. The hall was half filled to listen to an essay on Shakespeare, read by one Betty of Cincinnati. It was a new subject to a majority of the audience, and the reading threw all the sleepy heads into such a profound slumber that they almost knew no waking. One great admirer of the King poet told us that the orator so reminded him of "Grandsire out in alabaster" that he was much troubled to keep awake during the near two hours' reading.

HARTWELL, O.

A petition was presented to the School Board at its recent meeting signed by some seventy-five gentlemen of the highest respectability and about an equal number of the first ladies of our village, asking them to tender to Prof. T. S. Jones the position he has faithfully filled for three years as Principal of the schools. The Board thought fit to turn a deaf ear to the entreaties of their petitioners, much to the regret of our citizens, who supposed so strong a petition would have some influence upon a Board of only three men, especially as the petitioners were largely the men who put them in office, and the pledges of these officials had been the village talk and supposed by their constituents to be sacred and inviolable. The reason for this treatment must be attributable to the preponderance of wisdom in the Board over the judgment of the majority of the people.

The case of Genio Pillars against John Wenderoth for selling intoxicating liquors on Sunday, May 30th, will come up before His Honor Mayor Morgan tonight at 8 o'clock.

Rumor says that three or four young men, ranging from eighteen to twenty-one, have got themselves into a pickle by acting imprudently while skiff riding in the early part of last week. We will await further developments.

Councilman Samuel D. Peacock has in his possession the official decision of the Court of Appeals against the town, which was handed to him by Col. R. W. Nelson. Bellevue has been following the laws of Newport as far as practicable, and by so doing will have to pay $8,000 instead of $5,000, as previously stated. Is it not true that Bellevue had a solid character of its own? If this matter is not soon remedied other suits will soon follow. A similar case was decided against Newport two weeks ago.

SPRINGFIELD, O.

Commencement exercises commence to-day.

HAMILTON.

A little fistic exercise at "Shoo Fly's," yesterday.

Prof. John Swemberger, of Middletown, is in the city to-day.

An excursion will be run from Middletown to this city next Sunday.

Miss Gilbert, of Trenton, spends tomorrow with Miss Anna Helmer.

John Kuth had his left arm broken at Friend & Fox's paper mill at Lockland last Friday night. His relatives live in this city and he will probably spend his vacation with them.

The new street car which was built by James McCoy is attracting general attention and will be run on a paying basis. Mr. McCoy is a first-class mechanic and an expert car-builder, and will be remembered as the genial superintendent of the O. L. & D. Shops for so many years.

We learn that a certain individual who was an aspirant for the position of music teacher in our public schools last fall is about to stick his fingers into the fire again. This man, who stands about as much chance of getting the position as a canal horse would of going through the eye of a needle, it is said, is at present engaged in a futile attempt to belittle the good name of Prof. L. E. Marshall, who is one of the ablest musical instructors ever employed in the schools of Hamilton. Mr. Marshall came to this city from Lebanon well recommended, is a straightforward man, has always borne a good reputation, and the arrows of his defamer fall unbroken at his feet. During his short stay with us he has done noble work, and deserves to be retained in the position which he now holds.

WICKED WILLOW BUGS.—Report reaches us through Mr. Fred Kerber that the willow bugs are destroying whole fields of willow in Ripley County, Ind., where it is raised in large quantities for making baskets. Men, women and children are hunting them early and late, but of no avail, and the entire crop is left to the extensive devastation of the bugs.

SHOCKING SUICIDE.—One of those horrible tragedies in which wine and women figure conspicuously was enacted near Lindenwald, a place some two miles below this city, last Friday night. Word reached this city Saturday morning that a dead body had been found on the railroad track, and Coroner Spencer proceeded at once to bring the body to this city.

It proved to be that of Leonard Ellis, and was in a terrible state of mutilation, the head being the only part that could be recognized as belonging to a human being. It is supposed that he suicided by either jumping before or falling between the cars of a moving train.

Mr. Ellis was about twenty-three years of age, and was well known in this city. He once worked for John Loder, the florist, but at the time of his death was in the employ of Henry Pursell, a farmer near Trenton. On his person was found over $300 in money, a silver watch and chain, an account book, and two notes in his favor for $100 each.

For many months past he has been keeping company with Josephine Reettig, a young lady of winning manner, who resides on Third street, and had often signified his intention of making her his happy bride. She refused her consent, however, but never gave any reason for so doing. At last he told her that if she did not give consent he would end his existence. Hence the awful tragedy which has brought sorrow to many hearts and ended the existence of an honest, upright and industrious young man.

DAYTON, O.

The Horticultural Society meets on next Wednesday at Mr. N. Olmher's place near the Asylum. Dr. J. A. Warder, of Cincinnati, is the essayist.

An excursion of the Order of Druids of Dayton, on picnic at Eastwood Grove, on the D. & S. E., near Shakertown, yesterday. There were three cars of them.

A very large temperance meeting was held in the City Park yesterday afternoon. Addresses were made by John Birch, A. Peabody, Dr. Berger, C. D. Williamson and others.

An excursion of over a thousand people from Cincinnati visited Dayton yesterday. They spent the day at Sander's Grove, near Oakwood. The Cincinnati Männerchor accompanied the excursion.

The City Council allowed City Solicitor Kummer $1,000 in addition to his regular salary, Friday evening, for drawing ordinances, special services in assessment cases, etc., for the fiscal year just closed.

The following licenses to marry were issued Saturday by the Probate Court: Wm. M. Van Cleaf and Mary Croft, John H. Prieser and Fannie A. Burket, James Wisner and Sarah Grimes, Thomas Houregan and Ann S. Hughes, Vespasian S. Pottle and Carrie Jennings.

Jacob Tooley, a brakeman on the D. & M., was fatally injured yesterday afternoon by falling from his train a short distance from Tippencanoe. The train was loaded with ice, and Tooley's absence was not observed until it reached Dayton. His injuries are probably fatal.

Dr. Dargherty, the Coroner, who has been tracing up the case of the baby that was found near the river in the city about ten days ago, last Saturday succeeded in finding the parents, who are colored people, living in the southern part of Dayton. The child, the mother stated, was prematurely born.

Eschel Lodge, No. 55, I. O. B. B., held their semi-annual election last evening, resulting as follows: David Meyers, President; L. Baer, Vice President; J. Rosenthal, Secretary; T. Weinstein, Warden; J. Beatts, Outside Guard.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning C. Seidenstecker informed Round-man William Kirby that he had been choked and robbed of a revolver and $10 in money. He stated that the robbery had taken place on Warren street only a short time before. Two suspected men were arrested.

Agriculture in Ireland.

(London Times.) According to statements from all parts of Ireland, agricultural operations are in a forward state, and it is the general belief that should favorable weather continue, the harvest will go far towards compensating Irish farmers for their losses last year. The rain of the past few days has given a stimulus to field labor, and the coming season is looked forward to with hope. In the meantime fears are entertained that in some of the worst districts relief will still be required during the summer months, and the charitable funds are almost exhausted.

The Mansion House Committee, under these circumstances, have decided not to wind up their affairs for the present, but to make a further effort on behalf of the people. It was stated on Tuesday, at a meeting of the Land League, that the distress of the next two months would be the worst of all. The general impression appears to be that during the coming three months relief will be urgently required in a few of the poorest districts, but the brightening prospects of a good season have already done much to restore confidence to the people.

H. H. Warner & Co. have in their possession hundreds of testimonials that say Warner's Safe Nervine will cure headaches and neuritis.

NOTES ON EDUCATION.

The Missouri State University has 696 students.

The Harvard Divinity School Fund for New Professorships has reached the sum of $113,700.

Twenty-two young women tried the Harvard preliminary examination this season, and two the final examination.

Dr. Gregory has resigned his post in the Illinois Industrial University. The institution has just graduated twenty students.

Hiram College, Ohio—the college of which General Garfield was once president, and of which he is now a trustee—has 209 students.

Mr. Henry Winkley, of Philadelphia, has given $5,000 to Phillips Exeter Academy. He gave a similar sum to the school two years ago.

A new building for a library and art gallery is just being built at the University of California. It is to cost $50,000, and the library will hold 500,000 volumes. The University has just graduated 44 students.

During the past winter there were at the 20 German universities the goodly number of 20,172 students. The University of Berlin had the largest number—3,608. The philosophical departments attracted the largest number—8,624.

Three hundred and eighty-five girls applied for the Oxford senior examination this season, and three hundred and fifty-three for the junior examinations. In addition to the ordinary examination of boys and girls another examination for young women over eighteen years old began at the same time, thirty-five offering themselves for the preliminary examination.

A committee of the Boston School Board have arranged a plan for pensioning old and infirm teachers. They suggest the creation of a fund to be under the charge of the Committee on Accounts, and any teacher who in 1880 has completed twenty-five years service and any teacher not yet forty-five years of age whose term of service dates from the present year, can join the association. It is proposed to create an annual pension of from $100 to $500 for each teacher joining the association, the amount to be determined by the rate paid to each teacher, said rate to be determined upon hereafter.

Philadelphia has 472 public schools, instructing 103,567 pupils by means of 2,070 teachers, only 77 of whom are men. The value of the school property owned and in use by the city is nearly $6,000,000. The President of the Department of Public Education feels the absurdity and injustice of the reduction in the teachers' salaries. He says: "The pay allowed is not above a laborer's wages. It is not believed that the teachers in our schools will at once abandon their positions because of such meager compensation, but it must lead the more enterprising and capable to seek employment elsewhere, and deter persons with aspirations and ability from preparing for or accepting the position." Where New York pays an average salary of $814 17, Philadelphia pays $486 10. The work of teaching is probably as hard in Philadelphia as in New York.

Decorative Art in a London House.

(The Queen.) What bedroom! The guest chamber is made of fire and flowers. That is to say, the bed, toilet table, washstand, cabinets are all plain gold. The shutters are plain gold. The windows glow with colors such as the Alhambra has. Through Moorish trellis-work these colors shine, the subjects being only visible by scrutiny. What is not pure gold is crystal; the knobs on the bedposts, the shelves of the tables, scintillate with facets. The whole room is like an ancient shrine of reliquary.

The walls are painted with a deep frieze of flowers, growing up nature, which relieves the mass of gold by myriad tints. When we have breath our eyes are caught by one of the cupboards, wherein Socrates is seen teaching an eager boy; above, Xantippe, leaning out of window, is just cooling their enthusiasm for science with her ewer. Below, rabbits and foxes sport, and flowers grow everywhere. A bookshelf of gold holds the books the fair inhabitant is to read.

The kind of furniture loved by Mr. Burges may be best understood by the exact description of one piece—say the washstand. 'Up to now a washstand has seemed an impertinent sort of affair to be kept out of sight; but here we have a gem fit to sit at all day in poetic enjoyment. It is of gold, with fragments of bright stones and shells inlaid; those called "Venus' ears" have been largely used. Every blank space is carved minutely in flowers, beautifully tinted, and we discern a lizard or two and some butterflies among them. Thick crystals inclose small shelves, where a scent bottle, some hundreds of years old, and a toothpowder receptacle, some thousands, nestle and shine. Marble plates receive the soap. A fine bronze, which most of us would place on some table for ornament, here makes itself useful—a bull from whose throat near the water pours into a Bressia basin, inlaid with silver fishes. How do you get the water into See you that other bronze, a tortoise, which seems to creep beyond the bull's fell reach—it is a plug twist him around and the bull fits the basin. Such is the use which Aladdin makes of bronzes, and I beg to add that the lapis and amber and crystal and marble are not paper-mache and glazed chalk—they are the real thing. On one washstand we read the quaint inscription from Chaucer, "This is the mirror perillous on which the proud Narcissus saw his faire face bright." In unexpected places little taps and handles shine forth, made of coral or silver, with uncut stones enlaid therein. Aladdin's own room and his bed are quite unlike the Golden Chamber. The room is almost wholly scarlet. Around the wall runs a cornice of conventional waves full of fishes, which in some places are almost deceptive in glitter; these are life-size. I felt quite in love with one mackerel; but I gave him up for a stern, who combs her yellow hair over the fireplace. More cupboards and dressing tables, crowded with precious flasks of gold and cloisonne, detached us from the siren; and the scarlet bed with its tall headpiece, painted by Henry Holiday with the Sleeping Beauty, a very charming production, rooted us to the spot.

Gold in Tennessee.

(Nashville Banner.) Lebanon's latest sensation is the discovery of a gold mine in the southern part of the town. Mr. W. R. Bailiff in boring a well, says the Herald, struck water which is of a bright green color, and tastes and smells of almost anything that can be imagined. A piece of silver dropped into a glass of this water turns black immediately. Wishing to get some pure water he commenced to drill another hole about twenty-five feet from the first. At the depth of about thirty feet from the surface, while pouring the cuttings out of the bucket, some of the hands noticed something glittering in the sun.

Mr. Bailiff gathered up some of the cuttings into a pan and washed them out, when he found several small pieces of pure gold. Some of these were submitted to Prof. Buchanan, who, after applying the usual tests, pronounced them to be the pure metal.

Mr. Bailiff is going to sink a shaft on the place immediately and see how his "find" pans out. At present the indications are that there is gold there in paying quantities. He has been offered $1,500 for his place, which cost only $250, and declines to sell, and is determined to see if there is anything in his "find" or not.

How a Brooklyn Architect Won a Bride.

A romance in real life, resulting in a happy marriage, has just been brought to light in Rondout, N. Y. Not long ago Mr. Nathan W. Pratt, a marine architect of Brooklyn, visited that city in connection with his business. While leisurely strolling through one of the streets in company with a relative he passed the Children's Church at Ponckhockie. Miss Carrie Dandney, the organist, was just coming out of the church edifice as they passed. Mr. Pratt asked what church it was. Little thinking what was in store for her, Miss Dandney told him, and offered to allow the two to inspect it.

After showing them around she played a tune on the organ for them. They then thanked her and departed. Two days afterward the pretty organist received a note, asking permission to call upon her. Having ascertained that Mr. Pratt's position and character were such as to warrant an acquaintanceship, an invitation was extended to him to call. The acquaintanceship ripened into mutual love, and the result was a speedy marriage. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride on Thursday last, Rev. Isaac Clark officiating. There were many elegant and valuable presents.

A workman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost." (Christian Advocate.)
